CHIPPEWA INDIAN LANDS.
Largest Portion of Territory to Be Opened Nov. 10 is Swamp.
Washington, Oct. 1.—In order to be able to respond to the numerous inquiries that are coming to him through the mails, Commissioner Richards of the general land office has made an investigation into the character of the Chippewa Indian lands in Minnesota, which are to be opened to entry and settlement under the homestead laws on Nov. 10, and he finds that of the 768,887 acres of land embraced in the acquired territory, about 522,000 acres are swamp lands, leaving 246,000 acres available for settlement as homesteads. More than half of the land is in the Crookston district and the remainder is in the Cass Lake and Duluth districts.

Melba in a Temper.
When Mme. Melba first tasted the sweets of fashionable life a Boston woman of fashion captured her for a dinner. The Boston woman loaded her guest with attentions, and after the dinner she said to Melba, "You will give us a little song tonight, dear Mme.
Melba?" But the songstress refused.
The Boston woman pleaded and said petulantly: "I am quite sure my guests will be disappointed. Really you are quite unkind." This infuriated the high spirited singer, and she answered:
"My terms as a dinner entertainer are $2,000. You may see my manager if you want me to sing for your guests." Then Melba got her wraps and went away in a frenzy of anger.

What He Missed.
"An old negro living in Carrollton," relates the Bosworth (Mo.) Star-Sentinel, "was taken ill and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him.
But the old man did not seem to be getting better, and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue.
"Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked. "I don't know, sah," he answered feebly. "I hain't missed anything but my watch as yet, boss."

TO ORGANIZED LABOR

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF AMER-ICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR ISSUES AN ADDRESS.

DISCUSSES THE MILLER CASE

TAKES A VERY DECIDED STAND AGAINST THE POLICY OF THE "OPEN SHOP."

Washington, Oct. 1.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor last night issued a lengthy address to organized labor of America, dealing with pending congressional legislation, including the eight-hour and anti-injunction bills, with strikes, injunctions and labor conditions generally. Referring to the recent conference with President Roosevelt, it says:

"In connection with the meeting or the executive council and by appointment, a conference was held with the president of the United States for the purpose of discussing important labor legislation. The eight-hour bill was considered at length, the president stating that in mind had not changed on that form of legislation since he had favored it as governor of New York state; and, therefore, was favorable to the passage of the proposed act.

Will Consider Anti-Injunction Bill.
"On the anti-injunction bill, in response to questions submitted, the president replied the subject would have his most careful and earnest attention.

"Other important questions affecting legislation, as per decision of last convention, were taken up and on behalf of the International Bookbinders' union, the Miller case was discussed.
The executive council brought to the president's attention the manner in which his decision had been quoted, and in addition to the relationship of Mr. Miller to the Bookbinders' union, as brought forth in the charges against him, the 'open shop' idea was carefully considered. Replying to statements on the subject, President Roosevelt set forth that in his decision he had nothing in mind but a strict compliance with federal, including civil service law, and that he recognized a difference between employment by the government circum-scribed by those laws and any other form of employment, and that his decision in the Miller case should not be understood to have any other effect or influence than affecting direct employment by the government in accordance therewith.

Preferred Union Men Elsewhere.
"He furthermore made plain that in any form of employment excepting that so circumscribed he believed the full employment of union men was preferable either to non-union or 'open shops.'

"In view of the publicity given this subject, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor takes this opportunity to say that the trades union movement stands for strictly union shops, experience having proved that where the 'open shop' system has been tried, reduction in wages and profits have ensued, with general disaster to the industry practicing that system and therefore declares that the best interests of the labor movement calls for the employment of union workers and discourages in every way, shape and form the determining effect which follows the recognition of the 'open shops.'

The address closes with an appeal for organization on the part of laboring men in order to preserve their rights.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Fred Irie Arrested in Minnesota for Crime in Missouri.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 1.—Fred Irie, a fugitive from justice, is in the custody of Sheriff Beyer until officers arrive from Savanna, Mo., with requisition papers. He is wanted in Missouri to answer a charge of double murder and breaking jail. Irie was recognized yesterday by two young men who knew him at his old home, Plattsville, Wis. At their request Irie was taken into custody by Officer Savageau and a charge of drunkenness filed against him.

In the meantime a warrant was sworn out by one of the men, named Morris, charging Irie with being a fugitive from justice.

Irie was arraigned before Justice Tolson on the charge of drunkenness.
This case was dismissed and the warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice was read. Irie attempted to put up a bold front, but wilted when he was confronted by Morris and admitted that he was the man the Savanna authorities wanted.
Irie is charged with murdering his two companions, Guy Shellman and a young man named Speth, at Savanna, Mo., in 1899. While in jail awaiting trial on the charge of double murder Irie and a prisoner charged with burglary escaped.

SITUATION IMPROVED.

Bulgarian Press No Longer Discusses Macedonian Affairs.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 1.—The improvement in the Balkan situation seems to be reflected by the Sofia press, which no longer discusses the Macedonian situation. Prince Ferdinand returned here Wednesday morning from his country seat.

Letters from Monastir say the Turkish authorities are posting a final invitation to the insurgents to return to their homes. The proclamation, after referring to the remarkable clemency thus far shown, concludes:

"Those who do not return and refuse to trust to the mercy of the imperial government will be pursued and their homes destroyed in the most severe fashion."

A report issued by the revolutionary committee at Monastir gives details of a long list of atrocities committed by the Turkish troops in September, including the ruthless slaughter of a number of children, who were hurled from high rocks. It is stated that the Turks killed over 200 peasants in a number of villages and that while taking 130 villagers as prisoners to Nevesko they massacred seventy-five of them.

At another place eighteen women
which was set on fire.

A special dispatch from Rila monastery says that troops recently attacked a neighboring village, that the men fled to the forests and that the soldiers beat and tortured the women and children.

Another dispatch from the Rila monastery gives a report that the whole population of the district of Razlog has been massacred or has fled. Three thousand women and children, fugitives from the Turkish soldiers, have arrived at Rila. Many villages around Razlog are said to be burning.

HIS POLICY AND ARRAYS
FREE TRADE.

London, Oct. 1.—Mr. Chamberlain contributes to the Daily Telegraph a letter intended to serve as a preface to the republication in book form of a series of articles which has appeared in the Daily Telegraph on the fiscal problem. The letter, however, is practically a complete exposition of his proposed policy.

After disclaiming the credit ascribed to him in some quarters for the authorship of the articles in the Daily Telegraph, which, he says, constitutes a conclusive indictment of the present one-sided system of free imports, Mr. Chamberlain proceeds:

"It is not well with British trade.
After a long period of success the policy of unrestricted free imports has not shown evident signs of failure.
Our exports are stationary in amount and declining in character. We receive from our competitors a larger proportion of manufactured goods and we send them a larger proportion of raw materials than we used to.
Our supremacy in what have always been considered our standard industries has been wrested from us, or is seriously menaced. One by one our markets, once profitable and expanding, are closed to us by hostile tariffs.
"We have lost all power of bargaining successfully for the removal of these barriers to our trade. Our colonies alone continue to increase their purchases and even have we must abandon all hope of expansion and we are unable to meet their requests for reciprocal preference."

Replies to Arguments.

Mr. Chamberlain then answers the arguments of his opponents, and sums of his policy, which is in brief, as follows:

Low duty to secure preferential trade with the colonies, without bringing additional cost to the laboring classes on food; revision of tariff to obtain increased trade with fellow subjects and best customers; also power of bargaining with competitors.

He contends that increased trade with the colonies will provide more employment for British labor and thus cause advance in wages and allow the manufacturer to pay it with-
great advance toward the union of the empire and the first step toward free trade with the rest of the world.

The cogent exposition of his policy which Mr. Chamberlain has contributed to the Daily Telegraph is likely to prove far more interesting from the public viewpoint than Mr. Balfour's speech tonight.

The air is full of mysterious rumors that Mr. Balfour and the Duke of Devonshire will resign; that the king objects to the appointment of Arnold Forster as war minister and that Lord Milner has been summoned to Balmoral, and other suppositions.

Glove Cases.

Glove cases are very useful indeed, serving to keep gloves separate from other things, and if well embroidered they are ornamental as well. Sachets or cases for gloves are preferable to boxes, especially to those who move about a good deal, as they take much less room in packing. A glove case can be made of art linen, Roman satin, silk, etc., and should be long enough to take ordinary four button gloves easily, and if you put a division in it the result will be good. A division is made lengthwise and consists of a doubled piece of silk used for lining. This permits of the separation of white from colored gloves.

INJURED NUMBER A SCORE

STREET CAR CUT IN TWO AND
HIGH IN THE AIR.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Five persons were killed and a score of others were injured last night in a collision between a Wisconsin Central limited passen-
o'clock, and a Forty-third avenue street car at Fifty-second avenue. The street car was crowded with passengers from the Harlem race track and nearly every man in the car was injured. The motorman had received
reached the center of the tracks when the passenger crashed into the car.
None of the passengers had time to escape.

The dead are: F. Roberts, William
Griffin, Joseph Butler, J. Williams, Jockey, and James Gallagher.

The severely injured are: Frank
Gray, Louis Struby, J. M. Corrigan, George Merkley, Charles Cross, John Kilroy, Dennis Enright and John Laney.

All of the injured, with the exception of Kilroy and Enright, are em-

In addition to those named, there were a number of others less seriously injured.

The cause for the accident is charged by Motorman Kilroy to the wet rails. He saw the danger in time to avoid it and applied the brakes, but the car slid along the track with locked wheels. The passenger train, which was running at high speed, struck the street car near the center, cutting it squarely in two. It was reduced to splinters in an instant and the force of the collision was such that several of the injured were hurled high in the air and two of the killed met their deaths by striking the ground after being thrown up from the wreck.

The railroad people contended that no blame for the accident can apply to them for the reason that the danger signals were properly set and there was no reason why their train should not proceed as usual. They say that the train was not running faster than is customary.

Train.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—A party, composed of about a dozen persons, was run down by a passenger train last night at Sharon Hill, on the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington railroad, and five were killed, while three were injured.

The dead are: David Farran, Sr., David Farran, Jr., Jane W. Brown,
James Brown and Jane Clark.

Martha J. Farran and Miss Clara Osgood.

The accident occurred in front of the Sharon Hill station while the party was waiting for a train. The party had been to a family reunion at the Farran home.

NEGRO QUESTION SETTLED.

Presbyterian Church Will Retain Colored Members.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—The negro question which has presented itself numerous times in the last thirty years to the Presbyterian church of the United States, sometimes called the Northern Presbyterian church, was settled by the action Wednesday at the Second Presbyterian church of the committee on territorial limits of Presbyteries appointed by the last general assembly. By this action the 15,000 negro members of the church will not be set apart as a separate denomination, neither will the church take part in any class legislation—that is to say, the word "negro" will not be used as a qualification of any of the church laws or regulations.

Rev. S. J. Nicolls of St. Louis presided over the committee's sessions, which were in progress two days.

HOLDS A STRENUOUS SESSION.

Several Grievances.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 1.—The conciliation board held a strenuous and rather obdurate session Wednesday, the members being deadlocked on several of the important grievances.
Only two questions were finally decided. A tie vote resulted in three cases, two were withdrawn and an umpire was called on to decide one case which the board had deadlocked on some time. Of the cases finally decided, one related to a grievance of Frank Cannon, an employee of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, who charged discrimination.

Fitzsimmons Defeats Coughlin.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—In the fight last night between Bob Fitzsimmons and Con Coughlin, the "Irish Giant,"
the latter was knocked down three times in the first round and before the round closed Coughlin's seconds threw up the sponge and the bout ended. Coughlin seemed badly scared.

Record, the official organ of the Minnecott union in this city, and with a detail of several picked men entered the

proprietor; W. S. Langdon, Charles Langdon, linotype operators; W. A.
Sweet, circulator, and H. J. Richardson, foreman of the composing room.
The prisoners were taken to Camp Goldfield and after a conference with General Chase and other military offiel. They were later released on bail.

PLAYING A WAITING GAME.

Minneapolis Milling Strike.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1.—It is a waiting game between the Minneapolis flour mill owners and the striking employees. If the American Federation of Labor in the state raises $100,000 to support the strikers the great majority will undoubtedly stay out.
In the meantime the millers will be educating men to take their places and will undoubtedly be put to great expense, but they say they are fighting for principle and have reckoned the cost.

About one-third of the usual output of the mills is being ground and shipped, according to the millers.
The strikers estimate the output at about one-half what it is announced to be. They also deny that thirty-

thus far shown, concludes:

"Those who do not return and re-

Nevseki they massacred seventy-five of them.

At another place eighteen women
were outraged and then shut in a barn,
which was set on fire.

tery says that troops recently attack-
children.

Another dispatch from the Rila monas-
burning.

HIS POLICY AND ARRAIGNS

contributes to the Daily Telegraph a
his proposed policy.

Mr. Chamberlain proceeds:

not shown evident signs of failure.
ing, are closed to us by hostile tariffs.

Replies to Arguments.

Mr. Chamberlain then answers the
sums of his policy, which is in brief,
as follows:

of bargaining with competitors.

trade with the rest of the world.

speech tonight.

Arnold Forster as war minister and
that Lord Milner has been summoned
to Balmoral, and other suppositions.

Glove Cases.

take ordinary four button gloves easily,
colored gloves.

HIGH IN THE AIR.

killed and a score of others were in-
nearly every man in the car was in-
the passenger crashed into the car.
escape.

Jockey, and James Gallagher.

Gray, Louis Struby, J. M. Corrigan, George Merkaley, Charles Cross, John
Luney.

All of the injured, with the excep-

injured.

to avoid it and applied the brakes,
which was running at high speed,
struck the street car near the center,
the wreck.

Train.

night at Sharon Hill, on the Philadel-

The dead are: David Farran, Sr., David Farran, Jr., Jane W. Brown,
James Brown and Jane Clark.
good.

at the Farran home.

NEGRO QUESTION SETTLED.

Presbyterian Church Will Retain Colored Members.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—The negro
question which has presented itself
the Northern Presbyterian church,
of the committee on territorial limits of
take part in any class legislation—that is to say, the word "negro" will not be used as a qualification of any of the church laws or regulations.

Rev. S. J. Nicolls of St. Louis presided over the committee's sessions,
which were in progress two days.

ciliation board held a strenuous and
several of the important grievances.
of which the board had deadlocked for
Frank Cunnon, an employee of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, who charged discrimination.

Fitzsimmons Defeats Coughlin.

Colorado Troops Raid Office and Ar-Victor, Colo., Oct. 1.—A troop of cavalry and a company of infantry under the command of Major McClelland surrounded the office of the Daily Record, the official organ of the Miners' union in this city, and with a de-

newspaper office and placed the following under arrest: George Kayner, proprietor; W. S. Langdon, Charles Langdon, linotype operators; W. A.
son, foreman of the composing room.
General Chase and other military officers the prisoners were placed in the guardhouse, charged with criminal libel. They were later released on bail.

PLAYING A WAITING GAME.

Minneapolis Milling Strike.

jority will undoubtedly stay out.
expense, but they say they are fight-
the cost.
ped, according to the millers.

Generally fair and cooler.

The following from the Little Falls Transcript will be quite generally appreciated: The St. Paul Dispatch starts the rumor that Judge L. W. Collins, of St. Cloud, contemplates becoming a candidate for the republican nomination for governor. The judge has had in the past an ambition to become governor and has had opportunities to enter the field with the united support of the northern counties. He has in the past hesitated to give up his place on the supreme court bench in order to make the fight, and the inducements are certainly much less alluring now than on other occasions. Bob Dunn will have the support of many counties that Judge Collins could have relied upon under some conditions. It is not known that Collins still has ambitions, and even if he has it would be hard to tell just how long he would retain them in view of the fact that to enter a fight would retire him from the supreme bench—a position he is pleased to occupy, and in which he gives general satisfaction. There is little likelihood of his entering the field for the nomination for governor in 1904.

A Moving Sermon.

"I once had a parishioner who was a miser," said an English clergyman. "For this man's benefit I preached one Sunday a strong sermon on the necessity of charity, of philanthropy—a sermon on the duty and the joy of giving. The miser, at whom I gazed often, seemed impressed."

"Next day I met him on the street. 'Well, John,' I said, 'what do you think of yesterday's sermon?'"

"It moved me deeply, sir," he answered. "It brought home to me so strongly the necessity of giving alms that honestly, sir, I've a great mind to turn beggar."

TWO SLICK MEN

By DAVID FLEMING

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Hundreds of people knew Charlie Davids as a clubman having bachelor rooms and living in fair style. Not one man, however, could more than guess the source from whence his income was derived. He had been a captain in her majesty's service, but had been obliged to resign for lack of funds to go the pace. There were hints about a rich aunt at home, a richer uncle in Australia, some sort of an investment in the United States, but no one had any certain information.

Davids was a gentleman, and there was no doubt that he stood well with most mothers who had marriageable daughters. The men who hinted that there was anything crooked about the ex-captain would have been taken to task at once, and yet there was one man in London who firmly believed it and meant to prove it. That man was McNulty, an old Scotland Yard detective. On a certain occasion while he was piping off a receiver of stolen goods he got sight of Charlie Davids in confidential confab with the man. He did not know him then, but he at once set out to learn who he was. In the course of a few weeks he sat down and summed up his case as follows:

"Davids is crooked because he has business with 'fences.' His income is a liberal one, but cannot be traced to any honest source. At three different country houses to which he has been invited there have been robberies. He has got on to the fact that I am piping him off. I got his valet drunk and pumped him, and the man was promptly discharged. He will give me a long fight, but I will trap him."

Davids also sat down and reasoned. "McNulty saw me talking with old Bones," he mused, "and that was reason enough for him to spot me. He has followed me on the street and pumped my man. He is evidently suspicious. He knows of the robberies, and while he cannot connect me with them he will set traps for me in future. Look out for McNulty."

From that day on for the next six months it was McNulty versus Davids—Davids versus McNulty. The fact that suspicion rested upon him even in the mind of one man served to make the ex-captain bolder than before. Four or five robberies occurred during the six months that left no doubt in McNulty's mind as to who was the perpetrator, and yet he could get no hold on the man he was shadowing. For instance, Davids accompanied Lord Rothsay home in a cab after the theater and a dinner. My lord was drowsy and couldn't tell who his friend was next morning. He had been robbed of a watch, pin, rings and purse, but he would have knocked McNulty down had the detective suggested that Davids reaped the benefit of the plunder.

What the detective looked for was a straight case, and, being backed in it by the Yard, he was given all necessary assistance. It thus came to his notice that Charlie Davids was invited down to Squire Huntington's for two weeks' shooting, and he had a list of all other guests. Among them was Lady Isabel Gray, who never moved out of her own house without carrying a peek or so of jewelry with her. When it was suggested to Squire Huntington that some of the "fancy" from London might trouble him during the party he willingly permitted McNulty to establish himself in the house as a footman. A second man from the Yard was given a temporary berth in the stables and the new assistant parlor maid was one of the sharpest female detectives on the staff. They were after a slick man.

McNulty was so well disguised that his own wife didn't know him, and Charlie Davids walked smilingly into the trap prepared for him. Care was taken not to arouse the slightest suspicion on his part, and it was arranged without the squire's wife being any the wiser that his room should be the one directly above that of Lady Gray. He was athletic and nervy, and a sheet dropped from his window would enable him to enter hers. Temptation was to be thrown at his head, so to speak, while McNulty watched outside and the assistant parlor maid kept vigil in the hall. Lady Gray's rubies and diamonds were worth a fortune, and as McNulty thought of them he chuckled to himself.

"There isn't a man on top of this earth who wouldn't make a try for them under the circumstances. I am as sure to lay hands on Davids as I am to see the sun rise."

ery night for seven nights the double watch was stationed and nothing came of it. On the afternoon of the eighth day, while the men were all in the covers shooting and the women scattered about the house, and while Lady Gray was lying down in her room for a brief nap, her whole outfit of jewelry was taken as if by invisible hands. Every male guest was in the field with gun in hand; every servant could account for his or her time to a second. Lady Gray's door was locked, and the jewels had been taken by some one finding entrance at the open window. A gardener had been engaged all the afternoon trimming a rosebush that grew under that window and a part of the time he had used a ladder. He declared that he had not left his work for a moment. He was searched and questioned, but even the chagrined and indignant McNulty believed in his innocence. Inquiries cautiously made in regard to Charlie Davids brought out the fact that he was a mile away at the moment the robbery occurred. The haul amounted to about £60,000, and Scotland Yard got the worst black eye it ever received.

Six months later the ex-captain, for good and sufficient reasons, took up his permanent abode in Paris. He had been there a year or more when he and McNulty met on the street one day. The detective was invited to have a smoke and a drink, and as they sat in Davids' luxurious quarters the baffled officer musingly observed:

"Davids, that robbery at Henderson's was a very queer thing. The slick one has got clear off with the goods and can never be meddled with, but I should like to hear what you think about it."

"I have often thought of the matter," quietly replied the ex-captain, "and it is quite clear to me. In the first place, the thief, whoever he was, spotted you in spite of your disguise. Then he got on to the other two. Then he saw that things had been made too easy. He waited till all the men were in the field, and then, although he was not missed, he slipped aside, donned the dress of a gardener and made for the house. He reached it as the man at work on the rosebush went to the barn for a moment to drink with the coachman. The man was not absent for five minutes, but he lied about it. In that five minutes the thief ascended to the room, got the box of jewels and descended and made off, and he was lucky enough to don his own dress, secure the box and rejoin the hunt without having been missed. Luck does attend some folks, you know."

"Anything else?" asked the ex-captain after a long pause.

Rather Pointed Titles.

The following incident is told of a popular and well-to-do bachelor, who is a patron of a circulating library:

"I am going on a short trip, Miss Blank," he said to the young lady at the desk, "and want to take a couple of interesting novels, but I can't make up my mind which two to select. Couldn't you help me out?"

"I am afraid my selections might not prove interesting to you," replied Miss Blank.

"Just pick out two books for me and I'll guarantee to like them," he rejoined gallantly.

"Have you read Barrie's or Reade's novels?" she asked.

"No; get me one of each and I'll be satisfied," he replied.

She selected two and handed them to her spouseless acquaintance, who, after warmly thanking her for the favor she had done him, turned up the backs of the books and read these titles:

"When a Man's Single."

His Card.

Mr. Newrich, the dust contractor, having made a fortune, part of which he had invested in house property in the east of London, wished to rise, like a phoenix, from his ashes into some sort of society. His golden key applied to the coffers of an impetuous aristocrat opened the way. His new friend among other things advised him that visiting cards were a necessity, and as a guide to drawing up one ready for the printer handed him one of his own, which read:

HAROLD DE VERE,
Iona House,
Portsmouth Square, W.

Two days later, as De Vere was sitting in his dressing gown at breakfast, a servant brought in on a salver a visiting card bearing the following:

EPHRAIM NEWRICH,
I own 23 houses,
London, E.

—London Fun.

The Fox and the Hen.

A Fox, having crept into an outhouse, looked up and down for something to eat and at last spied a Hen sitting upon a perch so high that he could by no means come to her. He therefore had recourse to an old stratagem. "Dear cousin," he said to her, "how do you do? I heard that you were ill and kept at home. I could not rest therefore till I had come to see you. Pray, let me feel your pulse. Indeed, you do not look well at all." He was running on in this impudent manner when the Hen answered him from the roost. "Truly, dear Reynard, you are in the right. I was seldom in more danger than I am now. Pray excuse my coming down. I am sure I should catch my death." The Fox, finding himself foiled, made off and tried his luck elsewhere.—Esop.

A MUSICAL COMEDY

The night was still and sultry, hinting of rain. In the east a low moon swung blood red above the hills. Its rays crimsoned a path across the sluggish and silent waters of the Black river.

Upon a slight rise some distance from its western bank Colonel Prentice of the Ninth Mississippi, C. S. A., gazed longingly at the dim, misty lights of Tuscaloosa far back upon the opposite shore. The body of the young man was neatly incased in a new gray uniform, and the soul of the colonel was with the Confederate cause, but the heart of him was within the Union lines, and he was sorely distracted, for the Federal troops held Tuscaloosa, and Tuscaloosa held many northern officers and the person of Miss Betty Tayloe, and, further, Miss Betty held the affections of Colonel Prentice.

Now, Randolph Prentice had fought the oppressors and bested them and had been defeated by them. He hated them right heartily as abolitionists, and he admired them beyond expression as gallant foes. Therefore he mis-trusted their abilities in the way of lovmaking. A man who fights generously and chivalrously is not, as a rule, excessively bashful or unduly tongue tied in the presence of ladies.

Presently the colonel stamped his booted foot and swore beneath his breath. The quiet air carried sound far and clear, and to his ears there came faint strains of music, the hum of a guitar and an enormous baritone raised in song. Then the colonel retired within the grove of trees to reappear shortly with two of his men. They cautiously embarked in a small flatboat which had been concealed by a clump of undergrowth. The obliging moon had retreated behind a cloud bank.

In the parlor of the Tayloe mansion the lights were low—even candles were dear in the south toward the close of the war—but their dim rays could not conceal the beauty of two girls who sat lovingly upon a sofa, each with an arm about the other. Though they were sisters, one was dark and mischievous—the younger, Alice Tayloe—while the other was tall and fair and serious. Both were very good for a soldier man to look upon.

To them came a song from the night without. Dick Amys, captain of the Nineteenth Ohio, and Lieutenant Henry were of a mind that no time more than the present was auspicious for the wooing of a maid or two. The guitar buzzed resonantly under the deft fingers of the captain and their commingled voices warbled a melting serenade. Simultaneously the four eyes of them were steadfastly observant of the vine twined parlor case-ment. They were expectant of an invitation to enter. This was not their first duet beneath the window. Indeed, it is to be suspected that Miss Alice was in no way averse to the conquest of the north bloodlessly and by units.

Three gray shadows stole up behind the two. Colonel Prentice held up a warning hand and paused, listening with hardly ravished ears to the concluding bars of "The Blue Juniata." He nodded in appreciation of an excellent rendering, but when the song came to an end and a pleased murmur floated through the casement the heart of the Confederate was hardened.

"Gentlemen—hm!" he observed softly. "Could Ah peshuade yeh to repeat the effort?"

The gentlemen with one accord wheeled and gazed with interest into the muzzles of a couple of navy revolvers. Prentice recognized Captain Amys.

"Ah ad-doo—music," he drawled.

"Prentice!"

"Yo' humble servant, sub!"

"How many men have you, confound you?"

"Several, gentlemen—a sufficient number. Ah repeat, can I peshuade yeh?"

"You can!" replied Lieutenant Henry promptly. They obliged on amore.

"Ve'y fair," commented the colonel when they had finished. "And once moeh, if yeh please."

"Randolph, I'll be even with you for this!" Amys threatened hotly.

"Oh, sing something else if yeh prefer," indifferently.

They sang.

HE CAUGHT THE HOUSE.

A Yell of Applause at a Critical Point in a Play.

Edward Harrigan once said that the most trying moment in his theatrical career occurred in New Orleans soon after the civil war. He had gone south with his company and, yielding somewhat to popular request, put on "The Blue and the Gray." The play had been a success up north, but down south, with the air still full of the bitterness of the war, it was a dangerous experiment. Tony Hart was to represent the Confederate gray, so he hunted up a uniform of the Louisiana Tigers, and when he came marching on, young, stalwart, handsome, the typical soldier boy in the beloved uniform, the house, men and women, cheered and shouted and cried for all their heroes embodied in this boy. Harrigan, standing in the wings in his northern blue, waiting to go on, had just one thought—"They'll kill me!" Then he stepped out, the embodiment of the enemy, and a cold, dead silence fell upon the house. Not a hand moved for him. The audience was tense with emotion, and there was only an instant to act if the play was to be saved. Harrigan, big, kindly, good looking, came swiftly down to the front and stepped over the foot-light gutter, leaning down to them. "For the love of heaven, won't you give the Yankee a hand?" he exclaimed. At once the house was caught and all the pent up feeling turned the right way. There was a yell of applause.

H. P. Dunn & Co. Guarantee That Hyomei

Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh in Brainerd.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Brainerd guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that H. P. Dunn & Co. are selling Hyomei, the treatment that has made so many remarkable cures of both acute and chronic catarrh in Brainerd and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone. It cures catarrh of the head and throat or of the stomach, liver and kidneys.

Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. When using this treatment, the air you breathe will be found like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where growth balsamic trees and plants which make the air pure by giving off volatile antiseptic fragrance that is healing to the respiratory organs.

Hundreds of people knew Charlie Davids as a clubman having bachelor rooms and living in fair style. Not one man, however, could more than guess the source from whence his income was derived. He had been a captain in her majesty's service, but had been obliged to resign for lack of funds to go the pace. There were hints about a rich aunt at home, a richer uncle in Australia, some sort of an investment in the United States, but no one had any certain information.

Davids was a gentleman, and there was no doubt that he stood well with most mothers who had marriageable daughters. The men who hinted that there was anything crooked about the ex-captain would have been taken to task at once, and yet there was one man in London who firmly believed it and meant to prove it. That man was McNulty, an old Scotland Yard detective. On a certain occasion while he was piping off a receiver of stolen goods he got sight of Charlie Davids in confidential confab with the man. He did not know him then, but he at once set out to learn who he was. In the course of a few weeks he sat down and summed up his case as follows:

"Davids is crooked because he has business with 'fences.' His income is a liberal one, but cannot be traced to any honest source. At three different country houses to which he has been invited there have been robberies. He has got on to the fact that I am piping him off. I got his valet drunk and pumped him, and the man was promptly discharged. He will give me a long fight, but I will trap him."

Davids also sat down and reasoned. "McNulty saw me talking with old Bones," he mused, "and that was reason enough for him to spot me. He has followed me on the street and pumped my man. He is evidently suspicious. He knows of the robberies, and while he cannot connect me with them he will set traps for me in future. Look out for McNulty."

From that day on for the next six months it was McNulty versus Davids—Davids versus McNulty. The fact that suspicion rested upon him even in the mind of one man served to make the ex-captain bolder than before. Four or five robberies occurred during the six months that left no doubt in McNulty's mind as to who was the perpetrator, and yet he could get no hold on the man he was shadowing. For instance, Davids accompanied Lord Rothsay home in a cab after the theater and a dinner. My lord was drowsy and couldn't tell who his friend was next morning. He had been robbed

What the detective looked for was a straight case, and, being backed in it by the Yard, he was given all necessary assistance. It thus came to his notice that Charlie Davids was invited down to Squire Huntington's for two weeks' shooting, and he had a list of all other guests. Among them was Lady Isabel Gray, who never moved out of her own house without carrying a peck or so of jewelry with her. When it was suggested to Squire Huntington that some of the "fancy" from London might trouble him during the party he willingly permitted McNulty to establish himself in the house as a footman. A second man from the Yard was given a temporary berth in the stables and the new assistant parlor maid was one of the sharpest female detectives on the staff. They were after a slick man.

McNulty was so well disguised that his own wife didn't know him, and Charlie Davids walked smilingly into the trap prepared for him. Care was taken not to arouse the slightest suspicion on his part, and it was arranged without the squire's wife being any the wiser that his room should be the one directly above that of Lady Gray. He was athletic and nifty, and a sheet dropped from his window would enable him to enter hers. Temptation was to be thrown at his head, so to speak, while McNulty watched outside and the assistant parlor maid kept vigil in the hall. Lady Gray's rubies and diamonds were worth a fortune, and as McNulty thought of them he chuckled to himself:

ery night for seven nights the double watch was stationed and nothing came of it. On the afternoon of the eighth day, while the men were all in the covers shooting and the women scattered about the house, and while Lady Gray was lying down in her room for a brief nap, her whole outfit of jewelry was taken as if by invisible hands. Every male guest was in the field with gun in hand; every servant could account for his or her time to a second. Lady Gray's door was locked, and the jewels had been taken by some one finding entrance at the open window. A gardener had been engaged all the afternoon trimming a rosebush that grew under that window and a part of the time he had used a ladder. He declared that he had not left his work for a moment. He was searched and questioned, but even the chagrined and indignant McNulty believed in his innocence. Inquiries cautiously made in regard to Charlie Davids brought out the fact that he was a mile away at the moment the robbery occurred. The haul amounted to about £60,000, and Scotland Yard got the worst black eye it ever received.

Six months later the ex-captain, for good and sufficient reasons, took up his permanent abode in Paris. He had been there a year or more when he and McNulty met on the street one day. The detective was invited to have a smoke and a drink, and as they sat in Davids' luxurious quarters the baffled officer musingly observed:

"I have often thought of the matter," quietly replied the ex-captain, "and it is quite clear to me. In the first place, the thief, whoever he was, spotted you in spite of your disguise. Then he got on to the other two. Then he saw that things had been made too easy. He waited till all the men were in the field, and then, although he was not missed, he slipped aside, donned the dress of a gardener and made for the house. He reached it as the man at work on the rosebush went to the barn for a moment to drink with the coachman. The man was not absent for five minutes, but he lied about it. In that five minutes the thief ascended to the room, got the box of jewels and descended and made off, and he was lucky enough to don his own dress, secure the box and rejoin the hunt without having been missed. Luck does attend some folks, you know."

"Anything else?" asked the ex-captain after a long pause.

Rather Pointed Titles.

The following incident is told of a popular and well-to-do bachelor, who is a patron of a circulating library:

"I am going on a short trip, Miss Blank," he said to the young lady at the desk, "and want to take a couple of interesting novels, but I can't make up my mind which two to select. Couldn't you help me out?"

"Just pick out two books for me and I'll guarantee to like them," he rejoined gallantly.

"Have you read Barrie's or Reade's novels?" she asked.

"No; get me one of each and I'll be satisfied," he replied.

She selected two and handed them to her spouseless acquaintance, who, after warmly thanking her for the favor she had done him, turned up the backs of the books and read these titles:

His Card.

Mr. Newrich, the dust contractor, having made a fortune, part of which he had invested in house property in the east of London, wished to rise, like a phoenix, from his ashes into some sort of society. His golden key applied to the coffers of an impecunious aristocrat opened the way. His new friend among other things advised him that visiting cards were a necessity, and as a guide to drawing up one ready for the printer handed him one of his own, which read:

HAROLD DE VERE,
Iona House,
Portsmouth Square, W.

EPHRAIM NEWRICH,
I own 23 houses,
London, E.

—London Fun.

The Fox and the Hen.

A Fox, having crept into an outhouse, looked up and down for something to eat and at last spied a Hen sitting upon a perch so high that he could by no means come to her. He therefore had recourse to an old stratagem. "Dear cousin," he said to her, "how do you do? I heard that you were ill and kept at home. I could not rest therefore till I had come to see you. Fray, let me feel your pulse. Indeed, you do not look well at all." He was running on in this impudent manner when the Hen answered him from the roost. "Truly, dear Reynard, you are in the right. I was seldom in more danger than I am now. Pray excuse my coming down. I am sure I should catch my death." The Fox, finding himself foiled, made off and tried his luck elsewhere.—Esop.

A MUSICAL COMEDY

The night was still and sultry, hinting of rain. In the east a low moon swung blood red above the hills. Its rays crimsoned a path across the sluggish and silent waters of the Black river.

Upon a slight rise some distance from its western bank Colonel Prentice of the Ninth Mississippi, C. S. A., gazed longingly at the dim, misty lights of Tuscaloosa far back upon the opposite shore. The body of the young man was neatly incased in a new gray uniform, and the soul of the colonel was with the Confederate cause, but the heart of him was within the Union lines, and he was sorely distracted, for the Federal troops held Tuscaloosa, and Tuscaloosa held many northern officers and the person of Miss Betty Tayloe, and further, Miss Betty held the affections of Colonel Prentice.

Now, Randolph Prentice had fought the oppressors and bested them and had been defeated by them. He hated them right heartily as abolitionists, and he admired them beyond expression as gallant foes. Therefore he mis-

trusted their abilities in the way of lovenaking. A man who fights generously and chivalrously is not, as a rule, excessively bashful or unduly tongue tied in the presence of ladies.

Presently the colonel stamped his booted foot and swore beneath his breath. The quiet air carried sound far and clear, and to his ears there came faint strains of music, the hum of a guitar and an enormous baritone raised in song. Then the colonel retired within the grove of trees to reappear shortly with two of his men. They cautiously embarked in a small flatboat which had been concealed by a clump of undergrowth. The obliging moon had retreated behind a cloud bank.

In the parlor of the Tayloe mansion the lights were low—even candles were dear in the south toward the close of the war—but their dim rays could not conceal the beauty of two girls who sat lovingly upon a sofa, each with an arm about the other. Though they were sisters, one was dark and mischievous—the younger, Alice Tayloe—while the other was tall and fair and serious. Both were very good for a soldier man to look upon.

To them came a song from the night without. Dick Amyas, captain of the Nineteenth Ohio, and Lieutenant Henry were of a mind that no time more than the present was auspicious for the wooing of a maid or two. The guitar buzzed resonantly under the deft fingers of the captain and their commingled voices warbled a melting serenade. Simultaneously the four eyes of them were steadfastly observant of the vine twined parlor casement. They were expectant of an invitation to enter. This was not their first duet beneath the window. Indeed, it is to be suspected that Miss Alice was in no way averse to the conquest of the north bloodlessly and by units.

Three gray shadows stole up behind the two. Colonel Prentice held up a warning hand and paused, listening with hardly ravished ears to the concluding bars of "The Blue Juniata." He nodded in appreciation of an excellent rendering, but when the song came to an end and a pleased murmur floated through the casement the heart of the Confederate was hardened.

"Gentlemen—hm!" he observed softly. "Could Ah persuade yeh to repeat the effort?"

The gentlemen with one accord wheeled and gazed with interest into the muzzles of a couple of navy revolvers. Prentice recognized Captain Amyas.

"Ah ad-dooah—music," he drawled.

"Yo' humble servant, suh!"

"Several, gentlemen—a sufficient number. Ah repeat, can I persuade yeh?"

"You can!" replied Lieutenant Henry promptly. They obliged con amore.

"Ve'y fair," commented the colonel when they had finished. "And once more, if yeh please."

"Randolph, I'll be even with you for this!" Amyas threatened hotly.

They sang.

A Yell of Applause at a Critical Point in a Play.

Edward Harrigan once said that the most trying moment in his theatrical career occurred in New Orleans soon after the civil war. He had gone south with his company and, yielding somewhat to popular request, put on "The Blue and the Gray." The play had been a success up north, but down south, with the air still full of the bitterness of the war, it was a dangerous experiment. Tony Hart was to represent the Confederate gray, so he hunted up a uniform of the Louisiana Tigers, and when he came marching on, young, stalwart, handsome, the typical soldier boy in the beloved uniform, the house, men and women, cheered and shouted and cried for all their heroes embodied in this boy. Harrigan, standing in the wings in his northern blue, waiting to go on, had just one thought—"They'll kill me!" Then he stepped out, the embodiment of the enemy, and a cold, dead silence fell upon the house. Not a hand moved for him. The audience was tense with emotion, and there was only an instant to act if the play was to be saved. Harrigan, big, kindly, good looking, came swiftly down to the front and stepped over the foot-light gutter, leaning down to them. "For the love of heaven, won't you give the Yankee a hand?" he exclaimed. At once the house was caught and all the pent up feeling turned the right way. There was a yell of applause.

Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh in Brainerd.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Brainerd guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that H. P. Dunn & Co. are selling Hyomei, the treatment that has made so many remarkable cures of both acute and chronic catarrh in Brainerd and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone. It cures catarrh of the head and throat or of the stomach, liver and kidneys.

Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. When using this treatment, the air you breathe will be found like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where grow balsamic trees and plants which make the air pure by giving off volatile antiseptic fragrance that is healing to the respiratory organs.

Remember that if Hyomei does not cure you H. P. Dunn & Co. will refund your money. This is a good time to cure catarrh by this natural method and prevent catarrhal colds that are so common at this season.

BROWN ARMY VICTORIOUS.
Defeats Advance Guard of Blue Forces
in Dashing Manner.
Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct.
1.—The brown army apparently came off victorious Wednesday in what proved by far the most exciting and dashing maneuver of the series of three ending yesterday. The day's work ended the field work designed for regular troops exclusively. Today the state troops will begin pouring in, and on Friday as many of them as have established camp will be combined with the regulars for the first of the series of the big events.
About all arms of the service were in action at one time or another yesterday, the rapidity with which the character of the maneuvers was changed giving a wide range of action.
The feature of the day was a clever attack on the advance guard of the blues by the brown rear guard, in which the latter used superior tactics and gained a decided advantage.

UNITED STATES EXPIRES IN
LONG AND PLUCKY BATTLE
SIR MICHAEL HERBERT HAD EX-
DON LAST WEEK.

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador to the United States, died Wednesday at Davos-Platz, Switzerland, after a long and plucky fight against consumption, which terminated with tragic suddenness. The first announcement of the ambassador's untimely end was made at the afternoon's session of the Alaskan boundary commission. Hannis Taylor, in behalf of the United States, had finished his lengthy argument at 3 p. m. and Sir Edward Carson, the solicitor general, was replying with an intricate legal argument dealing with maps and the ancient Vancouver controversy, which was half-heartedly paid attention to by those present, and several of them made preparations to leave the hall as the solicitor general delved still deeper in the dry as dust details when Chief Justice Alverstone held up his hand and Sir Edward sat down.
A second later, the commission, counsel, secretaries and spectators sat spell-bound, as Lord Alverstone, with trembling voice and tears coursing down his cheeks, announced that Sir Michael Herbert was dead. Maps and boundaries were utterly forgotten.
With dramatic pathos the international contestants became fellow sympathizers, listening in stunned amazement to Lord Alverstone's tribute to the man whose death none ever expected.

Voiced Sorrow of Americans.
In the meanwhile Ambassador Choate had entered. He had just come from Lord Lansdowne's room, where he learned the news. The intense silence which followed the delivery of Lord Alverstone's tribute was broken by Jacob M. Dickinson, of American counsel, who voiced the American sorrows and proposed an adjournment of the commission.
Solicitor General Carson followed and the commission quietly broke up for the day.
Friends of Sir Michael Herbert came hurrying along the foreign office corridors to ascertain if the news was true. On all sides, American, Canadian and English, genuine sorrow was exhibited, which was personally actuated by a sense of deep, personal loss.
Sir Michael had been at Davos-Platz about five weeks. When he returned to London from America, he confessed that he felt far from well, but his physicians held him hopes of his conquering the consumption. The ambassador expected to leave Davos-Platz a week or so ago, in order to greet the Alaskan commissioners here; but he contracted bronchitis.
Of this he wrote, only a few days ago, quite slightly, saying it was only annoying because on account of it the doctor insisted on his not going to London to see his American friends.
Lady Herbert intended to leave Switzerland a short time ago with her children; but she apparently changed her plans and remained at Davos-Platz. Expressions of sorrow have arrived from many foreign lands.

WAVES HIS MAGIC WAND.
Sam Parks Brings Harmony to Iron Workers' Convention.
Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1.—Samuel Parks, walking delegate from New York, waved his magic wand over the delegates to the annual convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Wednesday and brought peace and harmony out of conditions that seemed to portend only strife that might mean a disruption of the organization. Before the convention convened, President Buchanan's followers intimated strongly that they would withdraw if money were voted to local No. 2 of New York.
After Parks had addressed the delegates, they voted $1,000 as a loan from the organization, practically no opposition to the appropriation was displayed.
Mr. Parks evidently had reconsidered his plan to ask the convention to vote an assessment of $1 against each of the 98,000 members throughout the country and he ridiculed the statement that he would finally ask that each member of the association give a day's salary, which would aggregate close to $500,000.
Another victory for Parks was the action of the convention in voting almost unanimously to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

TREASURY STATISTICS.
Surplus for Past Fiscal Year Shows Comparative Decrease.
Washington, Oct. 1.—Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States, has submitted to Secretary Shaw his report on the condition of the treasury June 30, 1903, and its operations during the past fiscal year.
The total net revenue for the year was $560,296,674, an increase of $32-988,439 over the year preceding, and the total expenditures $506,999,007, an increase of $25,782,034. The surplus was $24,297,667, as compared with $91,287,375 in 1902.
Chicago's Centennial.
Chicago, Oct. 1.—Packing houses were the chief entertainers of Chicagoans' centennial visitors Wednesday and 100,000 persons visited the stock yards during the day. The celebrations were extensive. At Lincoln Park lagoon, F. Wieland of Milwaukee won the mile and also the 100 yards championship in the swimming race for amateurs.

EVACUATION OF MANCHURIA.
Russia's Course Anxiously Awaited at Peking.
Peking, Oct. 1.—Attention is concentrated on Oct. 8, the date fixed by Russia for her evacuation of Mukden and Newchwang. Russia's action in fulfilling or ignoring her agreement to evacuate will be the chief factor, it is said, in determining her relations with Japan.
Prince Ching, president of the foreign affairs, assured the foreign ministers that he is continuing to resist the Russian proposals. Prince Ching told M. Lessar, the Russian minister, that Russia should carry out her agreement first, and then the other concessions she requires in Manchuria would be discussed.
The Chinese papers assert that M.
Lessar is pressing for Russian control of the customs and mining rights in Manchuria, in addition to the proposals embodied in the latest Russian evacuation scheme.
Uchida Yasuue, Japanese minister, is opposing the Russian demands. Sir E. M. Satow, British minister, and United States Minister Conger have limited their representations to friendly advice. Uchida is negotiating for the inclusion of the opening of Mukden, Tatungkuo and Antung in the Japanese commercial treaty.

POLICE AND STRIKERS CLASH.
Several Persons Mortally Wounded at Budapest.
Budapest, Oct. 1.—A sanguinary encounter between the police and striking car men took place here Wednesday. Revolvers were used on both sides and many persons were wounded, several mortally. Fifty arrests were made. The collision was due to an attempt of the strikers, totaling about 2,000 men, to prevent non-strikers from working, and to the strikers attacking the yards of the carriers.

PROPERTY OF LAKE SUPE-RIOR COMPANY.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 1.— Mounted infantry and Canadian Soo generally and the points where the Consolidated Lake Superior company has feared possible acts of violence by the large number of discharged employees, but quiet prevails throughout the region in which the company is interested.
About 300 men employed in the woods at Wilde, who had been detained at Wilde by the company for several days, arrived on the Algoma Central railroad at night, in charge of the soldiers sent there in the morning and received their pay checks.
They were given tickets for several miles and departed without causing trouble.
Colonel Buchan, who is in command of the troops, the remainder of which arrived in the morning, has ordered twenty-five soldiers to guard the dynamite magazines of the company along the railroad.
Colonel Buchan is confident that the seriousness of the situation is over. He said that he would probably order a number of the soldiers back to Toronto soon. He believes that the local militia, reinforced by several detachments already here, will be able to cope with any possible danger.
There are 500 or 600 men the company has yet to bring in, including a number beyond Wilde. The remainder are from the mining region around Michipicoten, and they will probably arrive on a steamer soon. These men will be given their pay slips and be provided with several meals. Numbers of the discharged men have left for other places. No more arrests besides those of two men in the morning, who were charged with intimidating and inciting to riot, were made.
Martial law, which was in force with the reading of the riot act Monday afternoon, when the mob attacked the office of the company, is still in force and probably will be until the departure of all of the troops. Mayor Plummer, Colonel Buchan and the officers of the Consolidated Lake Superior company, take a hopeful view of the trouble with the men and expect a return of normal conditions soon.

Trial of James H. Tillman May Last
Two Weeks.
Lexington, S. C., Oct. 1.—During the seven hours devoted Wednesday to the trial of James H. Tillman, seven of the state's witnesses were heard.
Some of the cross-examinations by counsel for the defense were rigid.
The state still has a number of witnesses to be called and it is now indicated that at least two weeks will be consumed in the trial of the case.
Dr. B. W. Taylor, who was on the stand when court adjourned Tuesday, concluded his testimony Wednesday.
In answer to a question by counsel for the state, he said the operation was necessary to prolong life. After an examination of the wounds he entertained no hopes for the recovery of Mr. Gonzales. Much of his testimony was of a technical nature. Mr. Gonzales was under the influence of an anesthetic when he first saw him at the hospital.

DANGER OF STRIKE IS OVER.
Packing House Employees Believe
They Have Won a Victory.
Chicago, Oct. 1.—All danger of a strike in the packing industry is believed to be over. When the committees of the packers and the meat cutters and butcher workmen met last night, the union submitted their ultimatum for the employment of union men only without the men doing an extra amount of work to obtain an increase in wages. After a short consultation, the wage demands of the union were taken up. Nothing was said by the packers' representatives as to whether the demands of the union are accepted or would be rejected, and for this reason, the union's committee believe it has won a victory.

Little Men and Women.
Treat the children like little men and women. It will do much toward making them men and women. Perpetual frowns, scoldings and fault finding do much toward making them surly, ill tempered and story tellers. Love wins in every instance. A mother should never be so busy that she cannot listen to her children. If they live to be men and women they will all too soon leave her. She should make the most of them while she has them. She should encourage outdoor exercise or sports and she should not forget to train them with proper regard for their personal appearance. She should never allow them to form such habits as coming to the table in negligee, neglecting their nails or their teeth or carrying soiled handkerchiefs about. She should never neglect or forget that they are creatures of reason, not animals that require to be driven, nor should she fail to instill in them a distaste for all that is vulgar.—American Queen.

Utilizing an Old Bureau.
Some genius recently made a piece of hall furniture out of an old mahogany bureau, one of those with handsome carved legs terminating in claw feet.
The top and interior, with the exception of the deep bottom drawer, had been removed. This drawer was covered with a hinged lid and served for the seat. The inside of the bureau was neatly finished with panels in which the rejected drawers were utilized, and the whole carefully dressed over and polished. When new handles of colonial design were added to the remaining drawer and the seat piled with gay cushions, an exceedingly attractive settle with a convenient receptacle for wraps and parasols was the result.

Deaf and Dumb Teachers.
"I suppose a deaf and dumb asylum is the last place to which most persons who wish to learn a language would think of going," said the principal of one of those institutions. "Yet there are several educated foreigners who came here to take lessons in English." The reason is that a teacher in a school for the deaf and dumb, having to talk so her pupils can read her lips, learns to enunciate clearly and distinctly and give each word its true value.
The foreigners say our teachers speak so distinctly that they can acquire the language in half the time they can from ordinary instructors."

The Bird of Paradise.
Probably no famous bird has a smaller habitat than the bird of paradise, whose beautiful feathers are so highly prized in the millinery trade. No one knows why the varieties of this beautiful bird are confined to the island of New Guinea and the neighboring coasts of Australia. There are many other islands not far away where the conditions would seem to be equally favorable to their existence, but they are not found among them.

The Difference in Seasons.
"Br'er Williams," said Brother Dickey, "you all time talkin' 'bout Wintter go ter glory in a chariot or fire.
How'd you like ter try it in de middle er August?"
"Br'er Dickey," replied Brother Williams, "w'en I made dem remarks we wuz deep in December en de white snow wuz all over de ground."—Atlanta Constitution.

in Dashing Manner.

Camp Young, West Point, Ky., Oct. 1.—The brown army apparently came off victorious Wednesday in what proved by far the most exciting and dashing maneuver of the series of three ending yesterday. The day's work ended the field work designed for regular troops exclusively. Today the state troops will begin pouring in, and on Friday as many of them as have established camp will be combined with the regulars for the first of the series of the big events.

About all arms of the service were in action at one time or another yesterday. The rapidity with which the character of the maneuvers was changed giving a wide radius of action. The feature of the day was a clever attack on the advance guard of the blues by the brown rear guard, in which the latter used superior tactics and gained a decided advantage.

LOCKOUT THREATENED.

Des Moines Merchants Organize to

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 1.—A lockout of all union employees was last night declared by four of the largest dry-goods stores in the city unless a boycott declared by the unions against a fifth store is raised today. The merchants have organized to combat the demands of the labor unions and unless a compromise is effected today a contest will begin for supremacy. Several hundred clerks are affected.

Cowles, Neb., Oct. 1.—The body of Tom Madison, the supposed slayer of three women in Smith county, Kansas, was found Wednesday in a field. He had been shot, supposedly by himself. He had apparently been dead a number of days. The body has been identified as that of the Kansas fugitive and has been turned over to the coroner.

DON LAST WEEK.

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador to the United States, died Wednesday at Davos-Platz, Switzerland, after a long and plucky fight against consumption, which terminated with tragic suddenness. The first announcement of the ambassador's untimely end was made at the afternoon's session of the Alaskan boundary commission. Hannis Taylor, in behalf of the United States, had finished his lengthy argument at 3 p. m. and Sir Edward Carson, the solicitor general, was replying with an intricate legal argument dealing with maps and the ancient Vancouver controversy, which was halfheartedly paid attention to by those present, and several of them made preparations to leave the hall as the solicitor general delved still deeper in the dry as dust details when Chief Justice Alverstone held up his hand and Sir Edward sat down.

A second later, the commission, counsel, secretaries and spectators sat spell-bound, as Lord Alverstone, with trembling voice and tears coursing down his cheeks, announced that Sir Michael Herbert was dead. Maps and boundaries were utterly forgotten. With dramatic pathos the international contestants became fellow sympathizers, listening in stunned amazement to Lord Alverstone's tribute to the man whose death none ever expected.

In the meanwhile Ambassador Choate had entered. He had just come from Lord Lansdowne's room, where he learned the news. The intense silence which followed the delivery of Lord Alverstone's tribute was broken by Jacob M. Dickinson, of American counsel, who voiced the American sorrows and proposed an adjournment of the commission.

Solicitor General Carson followed and the commission quietly broke up for the day.

Friends of Sir Michael Herbert came hurrying along the foreign office corridors to ascertain if the news was true. On all sides, American, Canadian and English, genuine sorrow was exhibited, which was evidently actuated by a sense of deep, personal loss.

Sir Michael had been at Davos-Platz about five weeks. When he returned to London from America, he confessed that he felt far from well, but his physicians still held hopes of his conquering the consumption. The ambassador expected to leave Davos-Platz a week or so ago, in order to greet the Alaskan commissioners here; but he contracted bronchitis. Of this he wrote, only a few days ago, quite slightly, saying it was only annoying because on account of it the doctor insisted on his not going to London to see his American friends.

Lady Herbert intended to leave Switzerland a short time ago with her children; but she apparently changed her plans and remained at Davos-Platz. Expressions of sorrow have arrived from many foreign lands.

Workers' Convention.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1.—Samuel Parks, walking delegate from New York, waved his magic wand over the delegates to the annual convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Wednesday and brought peace and harmony out of conditions that seemed to portend only strife that might mean a disruption of the organization. Before the convention convened, President Buchanan's followers intimidated strongly that they would withdraw if money were voted to local No. 2 of New York.

After Parks had addressed the delegates, they voted $1,000 as a loan from the organization, practically no opposition to the appropriation was displayed.

Mr. Parks evidently had reconsidered his plan to ask the convention to vote an assessment of $1 against each of the 95,000 members throughout the country and he ridiculed the statement that he would finally ask that each member of the association give a day's salary, which would aggregate close to $500,000.

Another victory for Parks was the action of the convention in voting almost unanimously to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

TREASURY STATISTICS.

Comparative Decrease.

Washington, Oct. 1.—Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States, has submitted to Secretary Shaw his report on the condition of the treasury June 30, 1903, and its operations during the past fiscal year.

The total net revenue for the year was $560,296,574, an increase of $33,988,439 over the year preceding, and the total expenditures $506,099,007, an increase of $35,782,034. The surplus was $54,297,567, as compared with $91,287,375 in 1902.

Chicago's Centennial.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Packing houses were the chief entertainers of Chicago's centennial visitors Wednesday and 100,000 persons visited the stock yards during the day. The decorations were extensive. At Lincoln Park lagoon, F. Wieland of Milwaukee won the mile and also the 100 yards championship in the swimming race for amateurs.

EVACUATION OF MANCHURIA.

Peking.

Peking, Oct. 1.—Attention is concentrated on Oct. 8, the date fixed by Russia for her evacuation of Mukden and Newchwang. Russia's action in fulfilling or ignoring her agreement to evacuate will be the chief factor, it is said, in determining her relations with Japan.

Prince Ching, president of the foreign board, assures the foreign ministers that he is continuing to resist the Russian proposals. Prince Ching told M. Lessar, the Russian minister, that Russia should carry out her agreement first, and then the other concessions she requires in Manchuria would be discussed.

The Chinese papers assert that M. Lessar is pressing for Russian control of the customs and mining rights in Manchuria, in addition to the proposals embodied in the latest Russian evacuation scheme.

Uchida Yasuya, Japanese minister, is opposing the Russian demands. Sir E. M. Satow, British minister, and United States Minister Conger have limited their representations to friendly advice. Uchida is negotiating for the inclusion of the opening of Mukden, Tatungkao and Antung in the Japanese commercial treaty.

POLICE AND STRIKERS CLASH.

Budapest.

Budapest, Oct. 1.—A sanguinary encounter between the police and striking car men took place here Wednesday. Revolvers were used on both sides and many persons were wounded, several mortally. Fifty arrests were made. The collision was due to an attempt of the strikers, totalling about 2,000 men, to prevent non-strikers from working, and to the strikers attacking the yards of the carriers.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 1.—Mounted infantry and Canadian militia now patrol the Canadian Soo generally and the points where the Consolidated Lake Superior company has feared possible acts of violence by the large number of discharged employees, but quiet prevails throughout the region in which the company is interested.

About 300 men employed in the woods at Wilde, who had been detained at Wilde by the company for several days, arrived on the Algoma Central railroad at night, in charge of the soldiers sent there in the morning and received their pay checks. They were given tickets for several meals and departed without causing trouble.

Colonel Buchan, who is in command of the troops, the remainder of which arrived in the morning, has ordered twenty-five soldiers to guard the dynamite magazines of the company along the railroad.

Colonel Buchan is confident that the seriousness of the situation is over. He said that he would probably order a number of the soldiers back to Toronto soon. He believes that the local militia, reinforced by several detachments already here, will be able to cope with any possible danger. There are 500 or 600 men the company has yet to bring in, including a number beyond Wilde. The remainder are from the mining region around Michipicoten, and they will probably arrive on a steamer soon. These men will be given their pay slips and be provided with several meals. Numbers of the discharged men have left for other places. No more arrests besides those of two men in the morning, who were charged with intimidation and inciting to riot, were made. Martial law, which was in force with the reading of the riot act Monday afternoon, when the mob attacked the office of the company, is still in force and probably will be until the departure of all of the troops. Mayor Plummer, Colonel Buchan and the officers of the Consolidated Lake Superior company, take a hopeful view of the trouble with the men and expect a return of normal conditions soon.

SEVEN WITNESSES TESTIFY.

Two Weeks.

Lexington, S. C., Oct. 1.—During the seven hours devoted Wednesday to the trial of James H. Tillman, seven of the state's witnesses were heard. Some of the cross-examinations by counsel for the defense were rigid. The state still has a number of witnesses to be called and it is now indicated that at least two weeks will be consumed in the trial of the case. Dr. B. W. Taylor, who was on the stand when court adjourned Tuesday, concluded his testimony Wednesday. In answer to a question by counsel for the state, he said the operation was necessary to prolong life. After an examination of the wounds he entertained no hopes for the recovery of Mr. Gonzales. Much of his testimony was of a technical nature. Mr. Gonzales was under the influence of an anesthetic when he first saw him at the hospital.

DANGER OF STRIKE IS OVER.

They Have Won a Victory.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—All danger of a strike in the packing industry is believed to be over. When the committees of the packers and the meat cutters and butcher workmen met last night, the union submitted their ultimatum for the employment of union men only without the men doing an extra amount of work to obtain an increase in wages. After a short consultation, the wage demands of the union were taken up. Nothing was said by the packers' representatives as to whether the demands of the union are accepted or would be rejected, and for this reason, the union's committee believe it has won a victory.

Little Men and Women.

Treat the children like little men and women. It will do much toward making them men and women. Perpetual frowns, scoldings and fault finding do much toward making them surly, ill tempered and story tellers. Love wins in every instance. A mother should never be so busy that she cannot listen to her children. If they live to be men and women they will all too soon leave her. She should make the most of them while she has them. She should encourage outdoor exercise or sports and she should not forget to train them with proper regard for their personal appearance. She should never allow them to form such habits as coming to the table in negligee, neglecting their nails or their teeth or carrying soiled handkerchiefs about. She should never nag them or forget that they are creatures of reason, not animals that require to be driven, nor should she fail to instill in them a distaste for all that is vulgar.—American Queen.

Utilizing an Old Bureau.

Some genius recently made a piece of hall furniture out of an old mahogany bureau, one of those with handsome carved legs terminating in claw feet. The top and interior, with the exception of the deep bottom drawer, had been removed. This drawer was covered with a hinged lid and served for the seat. The inside of the bureau was neatly finished with panels in which the rejected drawers were utilized, and the whole carefully dressed over and polished. When new handles of colonial design were added to the remaining drawer and the seat piled with gay cushions, an exceedingly attractive settle with a convenient receptacle for wraps and parasols was the result.

Deaf and Dumb Teachers.

"I suppose a deaf and dumb asylum is the last place to which most persons who wish to learn a language would think of going," said the principal of one of those institutions. "Yet there are several educated foreigners who came here to take lessons in English."

"The reason is that a teacher in a school for the deaf and dumb, having to talk so her pupils can read her lips, learns to enunciate clearly and distinctly and give each word its true value. The foreigners say our teachers speak so distinctly that they can acquire the language in half the time they can from ordinary instructors."

The Bird of Paradise.

Probably no famous bird has a smaller habitat than the bird of paradise, whose beautiful feathers are so highly prized in the millinery trade. No one knows why the varieties of this beautiful bird are confined to the island of New Guinea and the neighboring coasts of Australia. There are many other islands not far away where the conditions would seem to be equally favorable to their existence, but they are not found among them.

The Difference in Seasons.

"Brer Williams," said Brother Dickey, "you all time talkin' 'bout wantin' ter go ter glory in a chariot or fire. How'd you like ter try it in de middle er August?"

"Brer Dickey," replied Brother Williams, "w'en I made den remarks we wuz deep in December en de white snow wuz all over de ground."—Atlanta Constitution.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME WEDDING

Mr. Gil. W. Chadbourne and Miss Marie Low United in Marriage at Home of Bride..

Relatives and Intimate Friends.

Last night the marriage of Mr. Gilbert
W. Chadbourne and Miss Marie Low occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Low, 308, North Seventh street.

The affair was a quiet home wedding, none but relatives and a few intimate friends of the families of the contract-

the Rev. C. E. Farrar reading the wedding ceremony of the Episcopal church.
The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Low, but the groom was unattended. Miss Low wore a gown of pearl crepe de chaine and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Grace Low, the maid of honor, was gowned in a dress made of pink crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion, the predominating colors being white and pink. The front parlor was decorated in white and the drawing and dining rooms were profusely decorated with pink roses and carnations.

most fashionable of the season, the appointments being especially well arranged. The bride is one of Brainerd's fairest daughters and she has been brought up here from childhood. She
wish her all the joy in the world throughout her married career. Mr.
Chadbourne, the groom, is also well and favorably known here. For several years he was head clerk in the McFadden Drug company store. Previous to that he was at Staples where he lived for years with his parents, who after-

The out of town guests present at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chadbourne, father and mother of the groom, and Mrs. Emma Hoffoss, sister, of Minneapolis; Mrs. George Cressy and son, of Duluth; Mrs. J. C. Rosser, of Superior, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chadbourne, of Staples.

The happy couple left for Fargo on
the midnight train where they will visit with relatives and friends for a few days after which they will return to Minneapolis where they will make their home, the groom now being in business there. THE DISPATCH joins with a large number of friends in this city in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs.
Chadbourne.

Season on Mississippi.

company has suspended log driving operations on the Mississippi for the season, as the Minneapolis mills have logs enough in sight to keep them running until the river freezes.

It was the intention of the boom master to have started another crew about the middle of this month, near Little Falls, but owing to the high water this was not necessary, and he suspended work at the sorting works.

About 550,000,000 feet were driven this season and 200,000,000 are between Little Falls and Minneapolis, assuring the mills of an early start in the spring, with plenty of logs until the winters cut comes down.

FUNERAL OF LATE JOEL SMITH

Will be Held Tomorrow Afternoon From

Elks Hall--Remains Arrive From

West this Afternoon.

The remains of the late Joel B. Smith arrived in the city this afternoon from the west accompanied by the bereaved members of the family, Mrs. Smith and her two children, Gar and Mabelle Smith.

A number of members of the G. A. R.
and B. P. O. E., to which the deceased belonged, met the remains at the train and they were escorted to the undertaking parlors of Losey & Dean. Later this afternoon they were removed to Elks' hall, by the members of the order, and they will lie in state there until tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the funeral will be held. The members of Pap Thomas Post, G. A. R., will have charge of the services and a delegation from their lodge, to which deceased belong will act as escort. Rev.
Richard Brown, of the First Congrega-

Some of the facts surrounding the death of Mr. Smith were not known in this city until Mrs. Smith arrived. It seems that he had not been feeling well for about three weeks, his ailment being caused by falling from a horse while out cruising. It was not thought that there was anything serious the matter, however, although he did not do any work. On the morning of September 26 while Mrs. Smith was preparing breakfast she heard a moan from the room where her husband was seated and later she went in and found he had
Organic heart trouble was the cause given.

Attention G. A. R.

Pap Thomas Post will assemble at the post room at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to attend the funeral of Comrade Joel Smith. Let there be a full attendance, and be prompt.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict

Mr. Gil. W. Chadbourne and Miss
riage at Home of Bride..

Friends.

Last night the marriage of Mr. Gilbert
occurred at the home of the bride's
North Seventh street.

The affair was a quiet home wedding,
none but relatives and a few intimate
ing parties being present.

The marriage occurred at 9 o'clock,
the Rev. C. E. Farrar reading the wedding ceremony of the Episcopal church.
The bride was attended by her sister,
Miss Grace Low, but the groom was un-
pearl crepe de chaine and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion, the predominating
drawing and dining rooms were profusely decorated with pink roses and carnation.

The affair was in its way one of the most fashionable of the season, the ap-
ranged. The bride is one of Brainerd's
wish her all the joy in the world
throughout her married career. Mr.
Chadbourne, the groom, is also well and favorably known here. For several
den Drug company store. Previous to
for years with his parents, who afterwards moved to Minneapolis.

Chadbourne, father and mother of the groom, and Mrs. Emma Hoffoss, sister,
son, of Duluth; Mrs. J. C. Rosser, of Superior, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chadbourne, of Staples.

the midnight train where they will visit
number of friends in this city in extend-
Chadbourne.

ning until the river freezes.

this season and 200,000,000 are between Little Falls and Minneapolis, assuring
the mills of an early start in the spring,

WALKER WHITESIDE.

Walker Whiteside has been booked to appear in this city during the season, on which occasion he will produce a play entirely new to the American stage called, "We are King." The play is a comedy in three acts written by Gordon Kean of England. Mr. Whiteside only recently secured the piece for this country.

WILLIAM OWEN.

President Roosevelt's son, Quentin, was named after the hero of Sir Walter Scott's fascinating story, Quentin Durward. The story, which is the president's favorite work of fiction, has been recently used by William Owen as the basis for his romantic play, When "Louis XI was King." Mr. Owen himself ap-

Elks Hall--Remains Arrive From

West this Afternoon.

Smith.

and they were escorted to the undertak-
Elks' hall, by the members of the order,
and they will lie in state there until
tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the funeral will be held. The
members of Pap Thomas Post, G. A. R.
Richard Brown, of the First Congregational church, will officiate.

this city until Mrs. Smith arrived. It
for about three weeks, his ailment be-
out cruising. It was not thought that there was anything serious the matter,
however, although he did not do any
laid back in his chair and had expired.
given.

Attention G. A. R.

the post room at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to attend the funeral of Com-
attendance, and be prompt.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows,
law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache, or liver trouble.
Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough.

Only Two More Nights.

The young women evangelists who have been with us for three weeks in Brainerd will have but two more nights in the Congregational church after which they will go to Bemidji to begin work there. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the attendance has been some what diminished the last two nights, but a good attendance is expected tonight and there will probably be a large turnout tomorrow night as the last night. All are invited to attend.
